

PHI THETA KAPPA
HONOR SOCIETY

Dr. Lynn Tincher-Ladner
Phi Theta Kappa President and CEO

Dr. Lynn Tincher-Ladner is President and CEO of Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society, the largest honor society in higher education. She leads an international organization serving more than 220,000 active members and over 4 million alumni and is a nationally recognized voice on community colleges, transfer, student success, and educational opportunity.

A mathematician by training and researcher by instinct, Dr. Tincher-Ladner has spent her career asking a simple question: What actually helps students succeed? Her work combines research, evidence, and student stories to shape higher education policy, strengthen colleges, and expand opportunities for students nationwide.

Whether speaking to educators, policymakers, or students, Dr. Tincher-Ladner challenges assumptions, sparks new ideas, and translates research into practical strategies that improve outcomes for students and strengthen higher education.
